

Your INL Update — Week of April 12, 2010

This is Misty Benjamin with your INL Update.

Idaho National Laboratory is supporting National Robotics Week with science students from Southeast Idaho school districts. The teens will showcase their innovations and interact with INL robotic engineers, gaining some hands on experience with robotics developed at the lab.

Local professionals will have a chance to refine their business and leadership skills at a professional development day in Idaho Falls. INL employees are among those expanding their professional expertise at this week's seminar.

This weekend, the Greater Idaho Falls Chamber of Commerce youth class will support spring cleaning at the Haven shelter. The students will clean out the flower beds, rake up leaves and deliver some needed supplies donated by INL employees and community members. The Haven shelter provides boarding and services to homeless families and single women.

This was your INL Update. You'll find more information at INL.gov, including community announcements and the latest INL News.